THE VALLEY CITIES.

Notes From the Growing Towns of the Great Southwest.

A TRIP TO CHENEY, GODDARD AND GARDEN PLAIN.

To the Editor of the Eagle:

I left Kingman at 7 a. m. of the 24th and arrived at Cheney at 10 o'clock, and took in the Grand View house. This is the best hotel in the W. P. railroad.

Cheney is a fine town, and the hotel is very comfortable. The hotel is a fine man and sets up a square meal.

The Eagle has lots of friends in Cheney, and they all renewed their subscriptions.

A good many thought that as soon as the railroad pushed on west, Cheney would be a dead town, but it isn't. Merchants report a fair trade and anticipate the best times ever seen in that town after harvest, which is now in full blast all along the line.

The business men have not lost confidence in the town by any means. They still continue to make substantial improvements, which fact might be taken to indicate that they do not contemplate moving the town just now. They are making preparations to celebrate the Fourth in fine style.

At 3 p. m. I boarded the east bound train and landed at Goddard at 4 o'clock. Here I met so many familiar faces, and shook so many warm hands that I felt good all over, notwithstanding that the thermometer had taken down cellar to save it from blowing up.

Goddard is a fine town, and the hotel is very comfortable. The hotel is a fine
man and sets up a square meal.

There are no dwelling houses here, but there are a few small houses. The hotel is

THE NAVAL FRAUDS.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—Secretary Chandler appeared to-day as a witness before the sub-committee of the senate committee on expenditures of public money, and was examined in relation to the recently discovered frauds in the bureau of marine and hydrographic survey, which permits by some invisible but potent means leading officers, divines and college professors on the nation at large. These gentlemen, with Mr. Blaine in the executive chair of the office of the first industrial and the purposes of the last is foiled. When Mr. Chandler says he is a Republican, but not a Blaine man, he expresses a little more of his own than the "shoot me" club, when Dick, the pointer, and Mr. Murphy were in the height of their glory, and the boys used to sit around on cracker boxes and discuss topics of interest with a display of their own knowledge, that would knock the box clear from under Gladstone, George Bill Curtis and other political doves, of which it is not without reason to say that they
